Renfrewshire Chief Officer to move on

David Leese will be leaving NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde and his role as Chief Officer of Renfrewshire Health and Social Care Partnership at the end of the year to take up a new senior leadership position outside of the public sector.

David's departure is a significant loss for the Renfrewshire HSCP and Integration Joint Board, following 30 years of dedicated service with the NHS, Glasgow City Council and Renfrewshire Health and Social Care Partnership, overseeing considerable change in the sector. This includes 12 years leading NHSGGC's work on primary care and over the past 2 years, helping to shape and implement the new national GP contract.

David has led Renfrewshire HSCP for six years, bringing together a wide range of community based health and adult social care services into a new integrated model and influencing policy at a national level; most recently, safely guiding the HSCP through the current public health crisis. Colleagues across Renfrewshire HSCP should be very proud of their ongoing work to deliver core services and respond to a wide range of new and unique challenges brought about by the pandemic.

Jane Grant, Chief Executive, said: "I would like to thank David for his significant contribution to Renfrewshire HSCP and to NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde. David has led the integration of NHS and social care in Renfrewshire for the past six years, working to deliver real improvements to Renfrewshire's health and wellbeing. I wish David well in his future career and look forward to his replacement continuing the good work he has started."

Sandra Black, Chief Executive of Renfrewshire Council said: 'I am immensely grateful for the stewardship and support that David has provided over the past 6 years in his role as both Chief Officer of Renfrewshire HSCP and as a member of the council's corporate management team. David leaves the organisation in a strong place with a clear direction for the future, and a dedicated senior team and workforce. I wish David every success for the next phase of his career.'
