

Future Care Planning

October 2024

Look how far we've come!

We have spent over 4 years trying to encourage people to have good conversations and make Future Care Plans, so how have we done?

We recently had the opportunity to take stock and reflect on the amazing journey we have been on and all the things we have achieved.

Auditing Future Care Plans

Thank you once again to everyone who has assisted with the Future Care Planning Quartley Audits. We will be starting cycle 7 in the coming weeks so if you would like to get involved then get in touch with your local audit champion (you can email us if you are not sure who this is).

We've have also created a resource which highlights the learning from these audits as well as ideas for improvement!

Future Care Planning Case Studies

It has been great to hear stories of Future Care Planning making a difference in the care that people receive. We have taken two of these and created case studies highlighting what happened, what difference it made and what learning has followed.

DOUBLE

NEWS!

Future Care Planning is just one way we can help people to stay safe and well in their home or a homely setting.

However there is also lots of other exciting work happening across NHSGGC with the same ambition. You can read about some of these great projects in the first edition of the HomeFirst (HSCP Unscheduled Care Programme) Newsletter and sign up to their mailing list to stay up to date with exciting future projects!

A Festival of story-telling to remember those who have died

We are excited to be contributing once again to this year's festival with our own offering of events to help staff and the public acknowledge loss and share stories of those who have died.

From Death Cafes to Self-Care, we hope there is something for everyone.
