1. Introduction to NHS Scotland

National induction and orientation to the legislation, policies and oversight arrangements between Scottish Government and NHS Boards complements the local induction. The new national induction approach involves completing a digital training programme which has four components:

1. Context - how the NHS fits together and arrangements that enable the integration of health and social care.
2. The Blueprint for Good Governance in NHS Scotland – 2nd Edition - how the “Enablers” help Board Members take up their leadership role and fulfils the “Functions” of good governance.
3. Creating conditions - for health system quality governance for healthy organisational culture.
4. Reflexivity - an approach to capture understanding and learning about the Scottish health and social care system (national and local) during the six month induction period. This will enable the newly appointed Non-Executive Board Members to appreciate and demonstrate their capabilities in corporate governance at their six month performance review with their Board Chair.

The new national induction package is under construction and can be accessed on Turas Learn.

This package will include learning modules on the following topics:

1. Brief History of the NHS
2. Structure of the NHS in Scotland
3. NHS Scotland and the Scottish Government
4. National Strategies
5. NHS Values
6. Performance Initiatives
7. Integration of Health and Social Care
8. The 6 Leadership Capabilities for Health and Social Care

NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde Moving Forward Together

Our medium to long-term clinical strategy - 'Moving Forward Together' is aligned to our deliver plan and our corporate objectives and operational priorities to deliver Better Care, Better Health, a Better Workplace and Better Value.

The further development of our Moving Forward Together (MFT) clinical transformation strategy remains central to our medium and long-term planning. Our MFT Clinical strategy is based on the following key principles:

- Promotion of healthy living supporting people to maximise their own health
- Providing person centred care, at the right time, in the right place
- Moving more care towards delivery in the community
- Centralising specialist care, where there is evidence to support this
- Allowing practitioners to work to the top of their licence
- Providing joined up care through better team working
- Removing unnecessary barriers between primary and secondary care
- Maximising the potential benefits from eHealth and technologies
- Delivering our plan through the efficient use of available resources

Our MFT vision is a holistic approach to healthcare focused on integration across primary, community, specialist and acute care, supported by the right infrastructure.

Over the past year we have developed a revised draft Clinical Vision and Roadmap which outlines a comprehensive vision for transforming healthcare delivery across NHSGGC focussing on patient-centred care, whole system pathway development, prevention and self-management and embracing technology to deliver sustainable services. MFT will continue to evolve and underpin our future planning.

Further information on the strategy can be found here:- Moving Forward together - NHSGGC

Annual Accounts/Review

NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde Annual Accounts and Review are subject to scrutiny via our Audit and Risk Committee (ARC). The 2023/24 accounts were scrutinised by ARC on 18 June 2024 and subsequently approved at our June Board Meeting.

Further details and previous reports can be found here:- Annual reports and reviews - NHSGGC.

3. Health and Social Care Integration

The aim of this reform is to meet the challenges of Scotland’s ageing population by shifting resources to community-based and preventative care at home, or in a homely setting.

To achieve this, the Public Bodies (Joint Working) (Scotland) Act 2014 requires Local Authorities and NHS Boards to work together to form new partnerships, known as integration authorities (IAs). The aim is to ensure services are well integrated and that people receive the care they need at the right time, and in the right place.

IAs across Scotland are very different in terms of their size, resources and local context. But all IAs are responsible for the governance, planning and resourcing of social care, primary and community healthcare and unscheduled hospital care for adults. Some areas have also integrated additional services including children’s services, social work, criminal justice services and all acute hospital services. Integration authorities manage the budget for providing all integrated services.

Audit Scotland published a helpful guide ‘What is Integration? A short guide to the integration of health and social care services in Scotland’ in April 2018. This guide summarises some key information on the background of health and social care integration in Scotland, and outlines how IAs are structured and function.

Copies can be downloaded from

4. Introductory Meetings for New Non-Executive Board Members

It is important for new Non-Executive Board Members to understand the particulars of their Board. Introductory meetings are a key way to get to understand how your role interacts with those within your Board.

The following introductory meetings should be used to enhance your understanding of how the organisation directs and manages services for quality health care through its' operational structures. By the end of each meeting you should have an understanding of:

- who they are, their role and how that role relates to the Board and Scottish Government;
- strategic actions, policies and initiatives relating to that specific area and how these connect through the assurance routes for corporate governance; and
- the issues affecting that specific area and the implications of these issues when considered together with the issues gathered from each and all the specific areas you have met with. This will enable you to appreciate the challenges and opportunities across the whole governance system and the consequences of the decisions made at Board to drive quality and improvements across the Board.

5. Self-Reflection Tool

An important part of the learning process is having the chance to reflect. This space will have a reflective questionnaire/tool for new Non-Executive Board Members to capture their thoughts and reactions throughout the induction process (e.g. key messages they took away from the introductory meetings; insights gained from the Welcome On Board workshop, and their perspective on the absorption of National policy into local practical action). This tool will be helpful during the six-month initial appraisal conversations to confirm capability and how to best take up your role to strengthen leadership and governance of the Board.

Blank versions of the reflective questionnaire are available from your Board Secretary or to download from TURAS Learn.

Non-Executive Board Member Values-Based Reflection

Tools from 'Values-based reflective practice' (VBRP®)

During your first few months in role your induction will introduce and orientate you to the work and ambition of your Board in the delivery of quality health and social care services to the people of Scotland.

During this time, it is imperative that you take the time to reflect on how you take up your role so that you can be an effective Non-Executive Board Member and advocate of the NHS Scotland Values.

The NHS Scotland Values

Values are at the core of belief systems. They shape how you think, act and impact your daily interactions with those around you.

The NHS Scotland Values are embedded across Scotland's health Service and support in the delivery of safe, effective, person-centred care.

Values based reflective practice is not only a model that links thought and action with reflection, it involves clinically analysing one's actions with the goal of improving one's professional practice. It also prompts further thinking on, 'whose needs are being met? What does this situation say about abilities and capabilities? Who or what has a voice in this situation? What is being valued here?' 'What does it say about me and you as professionals?'

This resource has been created using the VBRP® principles to capture your initial reflections from your meetings with key stakeholders and during your visits to work sites throughout your induction. This will enable you to consider the values and manner your Board delivers quality services and draw attention to your own personal values and motivation for being a Non-Executive in your Health Board. This will enable you to determine actions and behaviours you might adopt to influence culture and enable good governance.

Reflections and learning captured here will form part of your six-month review discussion with your Chair to support your development and provide an important opportunity to discuss the 'health' of your Board's culture.

Values-Based Reflective Practice®

3 Levels of Seeing

In VBRP® we use these '3 levels of seeing' to offer perspective on a situation, to speak from the first person and to be mindful of the language of our intervention.

We use, 'I see', then 'I wonder' and 'I realise', in that order and giving proper time and space for 'seeing' and 'wondering' before reaching any 'realisation'.

9. Standing Orders

A copy of the Standing Orders which apply to all Boards is available from the www.nhs.scot website or [insert local NHS Board Website Address].

10. Code of Conduct for Non-Executive Board Members

Context

NHS Board Members all have a legal duty to follow the NHS Board Code of Conduct. The Standards Commission for Scotland promotes and enforces the Codes of Conduct for Members of devolved public bodies (such as NHS Boards and Integration Joint Boards), and publishes guidance to help those appointed as Members of such bodies. The Code of Conduct is based on the National ethical standards and the NHS Values which form part of the National Induction package.

As a NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde Member you are personally responsible for:

- Ensuring that you are familiar with the provisions of the Code; and
- Ensuring that your actions comply with the provisions of the Code.

Some NHS Board Members will also be Councillors and / or members of an Integration Joint Board and will also have to observe the Code of Conduct of those other bodies. As well as observing certain standards of General Conduct under section 3 of the Code and matters relating to Lobbying and Access to Members of Public Bodies under section 6, you also have to take the following actions:

- Maintain your entry on the Register of Interests

The NHS Board itself has to create and publish the register and has appointed the Board Secretary as the 'Standards Officer', who advises Members on the Code, and keeps the Register up-to-date on the Board's website.

It is your responsibility to register any interest which the Code requires you to register and keep your entries up-to-date. For example, you have a registerable interest when you own or have any other right or interest in houses, land and buildings, which may be significant to, of relevance to, or bear upon, the work and operation of the NHS Board. The test to be applied when considering appropriateness of registration is to ask whether a member of the public acting reasonably might consider any interests in houses, land and buildings could potentially affect your responsibilities to the NHS Board and to the public, or could influence your actions, speeches or decision making.

You are not required to register the interest of "other persons" who are close to you, however you may be required to declare such interests (see below).

- Declare your interests

Declaration of interests comes under particular public scrutiny and is commonly featured in complaints to the Standards Commissioner. It is important that the public and other stakeholders are confident that decisions are being made in the public interest and not for any other reason.

In addition to any registered interests, you may need to declare an interest at a meeting before a particular item is discussed. At the start of every meeting the chair shall invite members to declare any interests. Any interest you declare may or may not already be on the register of interests. When deciding whether or not to declare an interest, you need to consider the Objective Test:

"Whether an ordinary member of public with knowledge of the relevant facts, would reasonably regards the interest as so significant that it is likely to prejudice your decision making".

You also need to declare any financial or non-financial interests of any people or organisations you are connected with, e.g. spouse, partner, close relative or friend, employer or business partner.

The Standards Commission has granted a dispensation to NHS Board Members (and a similar one to councillors) who have been appointed as a member of an Integration Joint Board. "This is so members do not have to declare their interests when discussions on general health and social care issues arise and can participate in discussion and voting on these issues".

If you decide you have an interest that requires to be declared, then you must declare it and leave the meeting for the duration of the item under discussion. You should identify the need to declare such interests as early as possible and notify the chair of the meeting. If you have to leave the room, this may have an impact on whether the meeting will be in quorum when the item is being discussed. If you are the chair of a meeting, you should ensure there are arrangements in place for another member to take on the role of chair while you have left the meeting.

The Standards of Business Conduct for Staff

This is the primary mechanism by which the ethical standards of business conduct expected of Board Members are also embedded throughout the organisation. A user-friendly Fact Sheet raising awareness of the requirement for all staff to comply with the Bribery Act (2010) has also been developed for dissemination.

11. Learning Resources for Board Members

There are many learning and development resources available that are specifically tailored to the individual needs of NHS Board Members. This section provides some examples of external resources that will be of particular interest to newly-appointed Board Members.

Turas Learn

Turas Learn is NHS Education for Scotland's platform for learning and support resources (<https://learn.nes.nhs.scot/>). It provides all NHS Scotland health and social care staff access to learning and practice support resources produced by NHS Education for Scotland.

Non-Executive Board Members will have a private learning area dedicated to their induction and ongoing development needs. This space is currently being designed and will host interactive eLearning modules, updates on learning and networking events, links and documentation on relevant topics as well as offering access to mentoring and coaching opportunities.

In addition to Turas Learn all NHS Board Members are eligible to register for an account at the NHS Knowledge Network, which holds a wealth of information on topics related to healthcare management, planning, policy and development. There are, for example, specific resources aimed at Board Members and Executive-level management.

Workshop for Public Appointees

In addition to national and local induction the Scottish Government has developed a “Welcome On Board” workshop for Board Members appointed through the Public Appointments route. This workshop builds on the induction process Members receive at their respective Boards and highlight Scottish Ministers' expectations of them while encouraging newly appointed board members to network across Scotland.

Each workshop includes the following speakers; a Scottish Minister, a representative from the office of the Commissioner for Ethical Standards in Public Life in Scotland, and a representative from Audit Scotland.

The workshops are run up to three times a year, ensuring that every newly appointed board members has the opportunity to participate within six months of their appointment start date. Further information can be found on Board Members page on Turas learn.

You will also have been given access to the ‘Governance Portal’ which contains an e-learning version of ‘On Board’ and a discussion forum.
